Introducing Heartland's New Multifunction Dual Ovens, the Toledo XT and Paragon

CAMBRIDGE, ON— Heartland Appliances, Inc. brings high style and professional cooking power to the luxury consumer market with the launch of the Toledo XT and Paragon ranges at the 2007 Kitchen/Bath Industry Show.

The Toledo XT brings new meaning to the term dual fuel. This pro-style range offers a gas cooktop and electric ovens, all wrapped up in a sleek black design. Its six burner gas cooktop features a 15,500 BTU triple ring wok burner, for a total output of 37,000 BTU's. Each burner is equipped with a flame failure device which cuts the flow of gas if the flame is extinguished. Finally, two electric ovens make cooking for a crowd a snap with 4.6 cu ft of cooking space. A dedicated convection oven is perfect for batch baking, while the second oven offers the flexibility of seven modes: convection, fan assist, defrost, broil, brown, base heat and zoned heat.

The Paragon is a culinary masterpiece. It takes the cooking power of the Toledo XT and amplifies it by adding a second triple ring wok burner, for a total output capacity of 50,000 BTU's. And its subtle curves crafted from a smooth low maintenance stainless are offset by the sleek black handles to create a thoroughly modern look.

Both the Toledo XT and Paragon feature the signature Heartland French door design, and have a full width storage drawer. Their durable cast iron grates will stand up to even the toughest cook. And a wok cradle and a removable cast iron griddle are standard accompaniments.

The Paragon is currently available through Heartland's network, and the Toledo XT will be available this summer from 600 retailers nationwide.
